EAST BETHEL'S

EERIE AERIE

By MICHAEL DANIELS

More than 50 people turned out Monday evening at the Andover Town Hall for a public hearing on what is probably the largest subdivision proposal in the town's history.

"It's certainly the largest in terms of acreage," said Leon Akers, chairman of the Andover Planning Board.

The so-called Gardiner Valley subdivision would encompass 5,389 acres of land west of Route 5, including a small portion in Newry (map, page four).

Most of the land has been heavily harvested, Akers said.

AVCOG consultant Ferg Lea, who is working with the town on the application, described the logging as "bordering on liquidation harvesting."

Estates to RV parks

The subdivision application calls for dividing the overall parcel into nine smaller lots, ranging in size from 500 to 700 acres.

The land is owned by Northern Acres, a New Hampshire firm which sells land in that state and Maine. The project is being marketed by Maine-Vest, L.L.C., and the subdivision application handled by Main-Land Development of Livermore Falls.

The Andover Planning Board has been dealing with the application for several

Newry selectmen approve developer's $1.8 million guarantee

By ALISON ALOISIO

Newry selectmen agreed Monday to allow the developers of a Mt. Will subdivision to sell lots before the project road is constructed.

The arrangement was approved after Mike Liberti and Bruce Lilly guaranteed the town $1.8 million to build the subdivision road, in the event the two developers "disappear, kind of like Glover Development," in Liberti's words.

Liberti was referring to the old Powder Ridge development of the 1990s, a case in which the developer disappeared and left homeowners with an unfinished road.

Liberti and Lilly's company, Maine Mountain Properties, received Planning Board approval earlier this year for The Peaks, a 58-lot project on the Newry side of Mt. Will.

Newry's ordinance currently requires that a subdivision road be built before lots can be sold. At last week's Planning Board meeting, Liberti asked for a waiver so that he can pre-sell lots at a lesser price.

He proposed a plan under which Norway Savings Bank would guarantee the $1.8 million to have the road built should the developers abandon the project.

"We have a letter of credit backed up by a loan," said Liberti.

The 1.8 million figure is based on an estimate of $1.6

Girls' program expands

By ALISON ALOISIO

Girls on the Run, an exercise-based program designed to build girls' self-esteem, started four years ago with 15 girls at the Crescent Park Elementary School.

Since then, GOR has added a fundraising run event and expanded to four other schools. And this year, the program will be joined by the Tapestry Project, which combines art with physical activities.

The two projects operate under the umbrella organization Western Maine Girls Association.

A total of 72 girls, ages 8 to 11, at CPS and other elementary schools in SAD17 and SAD43 took part in GOR last year, according to director Kate Goldberg.

The 10-week GOR program includes running workouts and games to teach life skills, which include making healthy decisions, resolving conflict and getting along in a group.

The program also prepares the girls for a 3.1-mile run/walk event.

The word "run" is used loosely. The girls can run,

Long-time pharmacist heads home

By MICHAEL DANIELS

He knows some of our innermost secrets, and he's taking them with him.

After nearly a quarter century of dispensing prescriptions and advice — sometimes very personal advice — pharmacist Dave Preble is heading south.

Not that far south, but enough to be much closer to his South Paris hometown, and the home he shares there with his wife, Becky.

Preble, who began work as a pharmacist here in 1982, has taken a position at the Hannaford grocery store in Oxford.

His last day at the local Rite Aid will be Saturday.

"The main reason for doing this is I've lived in South Paris for 23 years, and I just have a desire to be closer to home and to be home at a decent hour," he said.

Preble started work here under pharmacist Chuck Primozich at Prim's (later Preb's) Pharmacy on upper Main Street.

FUTILE EFFORT

Several attempts by divers last week to repair the ruptured Bethel Water District main joint under the Androscoggin River proved unsuccessful, in large part because of severe displacement of the two pipes that met at the failed joint (photos, page 2). At an emergency meeting Sunday night, Water District trustees voted unanimously to replace the current 8-inch cast iron pipe (which was installed in 1889) with a new 12-inch ductile steel main. The new pipe has been ordered from Iowa and is currently being trucked to Maine, according to John Head, chairman of the trustees. If all goes well, Head said, work on the replacement should start next week, with completion expected to take from four to six days. Until the new main is brought on line, Bethel village will continue to be supplied by means of two 2-1/2 inch fire hoses, which have been in service since the old main failed, over the weekend of Aug. 13-14. The water level in the Paradise Hill reservoir continues to rise, Head said, but restrictions on unnecessary water use, such as watering lawns and gardens and washing cars, are expected to remain in effect until the new main is connected. The pipe replacement is expected to cost up to $200,000. The district is actively exploring possible sources of grant funding, with the assistance of Maine's Congressional delegation, Head said.

END-OF-THE-YEAR CONCERT

To the Editor:

The Mahosuc Community Band will have its end-of-the-year concert on the Common in Bethel on Monday, Aug. 29, at 7 p.m. The band has enjoyed the summer of good music and good weather for our concerts. Bring a lawn chair for your comfort and end the summer with some fun music. Just in case, the rain location will be at the West Parish Congregational Church in Bethel.

The concert list will include several new songs, including "Somewhere" from West Side Story, "St. Thomas" and "Shoutin Liza" which features our trombone section.

If that night is not convenient, the same concert will be performed at the Moore Park in South Paris on Wednesday night, Aug. 31.

Anyone interested in bringing out their old instrument and dusting off the valves or pads is welcome to come anytime we are practicing.

The rehearsals for the fall will start Sept. 12 at 7 p.m. in the basement of the West Parish Congregational Church. For more information contact Jane Chandler at 665-2264 or Brian Dunham at 665-2967 or our directors Patricia Boyle-Wight at 824-8453 and Kathleen DeVore at 875-2364.

Put your imagination to work, and design a scarecrow to take to the Oxford Fair on Sept. 14, 15, 16, and 17.

Registration forms will be available on Wednesday and should be filled out and presented with your scarecrow before noon. Scarecrows will be judged and placed next to the Museum building, so be sure they can stand alone.

Prizes will be awarded in many different categories, including one for groups or clubs, one for individuals and one for children under 12.

For more information call Joan Putnam at 665-2478 or e-mail jputnam@megalink.net.

THAT EXTRA SOMETHING

To the Editor:

For a split second last Sunday morning I thought I would not be alive to write this or do anything else on this earth for that matter.

My wife of 38 years and I were on Route 2 in the Toyota Camry when we were struck head on by another car. I will not go into the frightening details as they have been covered in the news. Suffice it to say, we continue to recover. We are battered and bruised and hobbling around, but with the grace of God, we are alive.

I am writing this to say thanks to all the people who helped us through our ordeal. Yes, police, firefighters and EMTs get paid to do what they do. What I am talking about is that "extra" something they gave to us Sunday morning. The kind words and understanding, a comforting hand on the shoulder and offers to have them or their family members help us buy clothes if we needed, find lodging and tend to our needs was very comforting.

It was chaotic at the accident scene with lots of gawkers. But, to those who stepped forward and held my wife, stood ready with a fire extinguisher until the fire trucks arrived, offered bandages and blankets and words of reassurance, we offer our heartfelt thanks. A local family even stopped by the hospital to see how we were doing and to offer assistance.

When we arrived at Rumford Hospital, we were frightened not knowing the extent of our injuries. Quick, professional and caring medical help swarmed around us. Again, these folks get paid to do what they do. However, all the hospital folks gave something "extra" Sunday morning; a reassuring smile, holding a shaking hand, and offering a shoulder to cry on was reassuring beyond measure.

I guess the "moral" to this story, if there is one, is that all the folks that helped us from the police, fire, EMT, hospital and the good citizens of Rumford gave of themselves. That "extra" something makes a difference and says a lot of good things about the citizens of Rumford.

May God smile upon you all.

We will furnish hot dogs, hamburgers and drinks. Guests may bring a salad or dessert if they wish. Come one come all. Bring a friend.

BAD ANGLE—When a diver went down last week to evaluate damage to the ruptured Bethel Water District main under the Androscoggin River, he found that the two pipes meeting at the failed joint had shifted well out of alignment. The angle at which they now rested initially thwarted attempts (lower photo) to pack and clamp them back together. A patch was eventually rigged, but it failed when the main was brought back on line, and the Water District trustees abandoned efforts to repair the old main.

hop, skip, speed-walk or even dance.

Last fall, about 100 people took part in a five-kilometer run to raise funds for the program. In keeping with the non-competitive focus of GOR, run times were recorded, but considered "unofficial."

This year's run will take place Nov. 12, and Goldberg said organizers hope more people will participate.

The Tapestry Project, which will meet monthly on Saturdays, will combine physical challenges, art and discussion on topics relevant to the age group.

Goldberg, who has worked for Outward Bound, said, "I have seen the power of outdoor experiences with youth. This will be a sampler for kids to try different outdoor experiences and challenge themselves."

A variety of physical activities are planned. They will include hiking, mime, cross-country skiing, snowshoeing, dog-sledding, canoeing and wall-climbing.

Art projects will include mask- and journal-making, mixed media tapestry and pocket dolls. The activities will be presented by local artist Sarah Shepley, who Goldberg said has a particular interest in girls' issues.

"Art seemed like a nice mesh for tying [the girls'] experiences into another medium," said Goldberg.

A dozen girls will take part in the initial program. The cost is $150, and scholarships are available. For more information contact Goldberg at 824-3459 or Goldberg@megalink.net.

Ann Patten, who managed Prim's at the time, worked with him then, and their partnership endured throughout his time in Bethel.

"I've watched him grow up," said Patten, who is now head pharmacy technician at the Bethel Rite Aid, "but he's always been a good pharmacist and gone the extra mile for his customers."

And those customers, he said, were the best part of the job.

"It's been just a total pleasure to serve them," he said. "It's extremely rewarding to be able to help people and to suggest something that will help their condition."

Prior to becoming a pharmacist at Prim's, Preble had worked there part time while still in pharmacy school.

Ann Patten, who managed Prim's at the time, worked with him then, and their partnership endured throughout his time in Bethel.

"I've watched him grow up," said Patten, who is now head pharmacy technician at the Bethel Rite Aid, "but he's always been a good pharmacist and gone the extra mile for his customers."

Preble

Ten years later, Preble purchased Prim's and a second pharmacy owned by Primozich in South Paris.

By 1998, however, the long hours and the increasing economic vulnerability of independent pharmacies had taken their toll — Preble announced he was closing both pharmacies and going to work for Rite Aid, which had opened a store in Bethel that year.

Purchasing the two pharmacies had "been a dream come true," he said, "but it just got to be too much."

The announcement that the village pharmacy was closing its doors was not welcomed warmly.

The Citizen received several letters protesting the decision, and Preble acknowledged that staff and customers had reacted to the news with "shock and disappointment."

But, he said, the decision was unavoidable, in large part because he could not compete with the chains in terms of the salary he could pay pharmacists.

"The more we built up our business, the more risky it became, because I was such an integral part," he said. "If anything ever happened to me, a replacement would be hard to come by."

"I miss having my own business in the area," he said, "but looking back it was the best move for me and my family. I was able to stay up here in the area, so there was a continuity of sorts for the customers."

And those customers, he

A TYPIST TOO—In 1982, when Dave Preble started out as a pharmacist in Bethel, his job responsibilities included typing out prescription labels. The typewriter is long gone, replaced by computers, but the smile remains. Over the course of his 23 years here, he saw the pace of business pick up considerable. When he started at Prim's, Preble said, he filled approximately 50 prescriptions a day, but now, at Rite Aid, he fills close to 150. By The Citizen's conservative estimate, that probably adds up to it well over half a million prescriptions for Bethel area customers.

Briefly

Seames to retire as fire chief

GREENWOOD — Fire Chief Ray Seames will not continue in the position after the end of this year, Town Manager Kim Sparks told selectmen last week. None of the assistants want the position, she said. Suggestions included advertising the position, having Sparks temporarily assume some of the administrative responsibilities, or coordinating with Woodstock and West Paris on a chief's position.

Bear River subdivision planned

NEWRY — The Planning Board last week received an application from Norm Davis for a 14-lot subdivision on part of his Route 26 property in the Bear River area of town. His partner in the project, Leslie Robertson, would build the 1,700-foot, unpaved road. The lots are expected to average approximately 1.5 acres in size. The board will review the project further at its Sept. 7 meeting.

OCSD sergeant demoted

SOUTH PARIS — A 19-year veteran of the Oxford County Sheriff's Department has been demoted for allowing an alleged drunken driver to get back into his car and drive across the street to a parking lot. The demotion came following a June 16 "determination hearing," according to a report in the Sun-Journal. Former Sgt. Gary Hill, who had served as sergeant for 12 years, reportedly allowed an Otisfield man to return to his car, after he had been stopped for OUI on Route 37 in Waterford, sometime in April. Hill told the Sun-Journal last week that he allowed the man to return to the car and drive it to the parking lot because there was aggressive pit bull mix in the car, and Hill did not want to have the man's parents, who owned the car, forced to pay for towing. Hill told the newspaper he took full responsibility for his actions, but felt the punishment was overly severe.

Picnic at TMS

BETHEL — The first annual Telstar Middle School Back-to-School Family Picnic will take place Monday, Aug. 29 on the patio at the school, from 5 to 7 p.m. Staff, students and their families are invited to bring a picnic lunch, blanket, lawn chairs and their favorite sporting equipment (such as Frisbees, ball, glove, etc.).

Stuffed animals donated for kids

BETHEL — The Bethel Police Department has received a donation of a dozen "Beanie Babies" from the Bethel chapter of the March of Dimes, to be used to help comfort small children in emergency situations. The toys are sold as part of a year-round fundraiser for the March of Dimes. The local chapter also holds an annual Walk-a-Thon in April.

Hamilton wins Washington climb

PINKHAM NOTCH, N.H. — Former Olympic gold medalist Tyler Hamilton, who has been off the official racing circuit since September due to blood doping charges, won the Volkswagen Mount Washington Auto Road Bicycle Hillclimb on Saturday with a time of 51:11. The winning woman for the second year in a row was Aimee Vasse, 27, who kept her lead despite being blown off her bike near the top. Vasse, of Tucson, Ariz., finished with a time of 1:12:28. Hamilton, 34, a former teammate of Lance Armstrong, is appealing a two-year ban he received in April for a blood doping violation. He is the first case based on a test designed to detect the presence of someone else's red blood cells. A blood transfusion can increase endurance by providing extra oxygen-carrying red blood cells. He was able to race at Mount Washington because it is an independent and unsanctioned event. "This is my first race in 11 months," he said. Hamilton had hoped to break a 2002 record set by Tom Danielson but missed the mark by less than two minutes.

Timber tax revenue doubles

COOS COUNTY — A record-high amount of timber taxes paid to Coos County this year — more than double last year's revenues — is fueling concerns about heavy logging by new landowners in the North Country. At the same time, timberland owners and environmentalists have split over how to study the pace of logging in the region and the wood supply for industry — a dispute that spilled over into their fundraising. Jasen Stock, executive director of the New Hampshire Timberland Owners Association, cautioned that this year's increase in timber taxes is due to higher wood prices and better marketing by new landowners. Also, because a lot of land was changing hands last year, harvesting in some areas was limited. "We now have markets that can take a spruce log down to 3 to 4 inches in diameter and sell that as a saw log... whereas before that might have just gotten thrown into a pulp mill," Stock said Wednesday. Still, the $561,111 in taxes for the 2004-2005 logging season, which ended March 31, dwarfed last year's total of $228,199. The county taxes are based on the value of wood cut in the unincorporated areas. Bayroot LLC, an unknown investor whose lands are managed by Wagner Forest Management Ltd. of Lyme, paid the most: $187,461, including $117,045 for a single operation in Millsfield.

CLARIFICATION

$40,000 for bridge-supported sewer main. The figure of $294,000 reported last week as approved by Bethel voters in May 2004 for infrastructure work related to a possible future extension of the town sewer line into Mayville, by means of the recreational bridge currently under construction, included new pipes and a pumping station on the village side of the Androscoggin River. The cost of the bridge-supported main itself — if and when the decision is made to extend the line — is projected to be $40,000.

months, Akers said, and several more meetings on the plan are likely.

Tom Dubois, an engineer for Main-Land, presented the plan at Monday's public hearing.

The current owners are not proposing any buildings, he said. Instead they are marketing the land to buyers with their own plans for it.

The project's website (www.northernacres.com/sunday-river.htm), extols the lots as suitable for an estate, family compound, sporting camp, residential subdivision, as well as for a golf course, resort or RV park.

However, Pati Apgar, marketing director for Northern Acres, told The Citizen Tuesday that the firm's buyers are generally not developers, but individuals seeking a parcel of attractive land large enough to provide privacy and isolation.

Road concerns
Monday's hearing lasted approximately an hour, and many of the questions posed by the residents concerned the project's primary access road.

The applicants have asked the Planning Board for a waiver of the town's requirement that before any lots are sold the road has to be brought up to town standards.

Those standards include the width-of-right-of-way and for further Planning Board review if they wish to develop the land further.

Questions were also raised about runoff, ATV access, and accessibility for emergency responders.

Some residents were clearly concerned about the possibility of large residential develop-a project.

Nonetheless, resident Dick Merrill has an idea of his own for drying up part of the deal, and knocking perhaps a million dollars off Northern Acres' bottom line.

One 685-acre parcel being advertised on the website includes "a 15-acre spring-fed trout pond" — a pond which Merrill said he created, with a dam, when he had been able to lease the land.

He is no longer able to lease it, he said, but state law gives him the right to remove any personal property.

"I put considerable time and effort into putting a dam in for a fish pond," he said. "If I don't have a lease, I'm going to take my property and leave — which is the dam."

The asking price for the lot in question is $1,450,000, but, said Merrill, if the dam goes: "a million-and-a-half lot can go back to half a million real quick."

'I would hate to see Andover become like Bethel.'

JACKIE GAMMON

ments, and the traffic and demand for town services that would come with them.

"I would hate to see Andover become like Bethel," said Jackie Gammon, "where your kids can't afford a piece of property unless they leave."

Her comment was greeted with applause, but when a Planning Board votes on development applications, public feelings such as these are not enough to pull the plug on grade requirements, both of which the current road, a logging road, may have trouble meeting, Akers said.

(The Northern Acres website, however, claims the parcel is served by "a network of well-built roads.")

Dubois, representing the developers, said that the road should be the responsibility of the future owners of the individual parcels — each of whom will have to come back million from Steve Swasey, another partner in the project and the contractor who will build the road. A cushion of $200,000 was added.

Because Swasey is a partner, they also obtained an independent opinion on the cost from a Westbrook engineering company.

There will be several internal roads in the project, one of which will rise to an elevation of about 1,400 feet.

Selectmen consulted
The waiver option has not been used before, so planners asked for an opinion from the selectmen.

Loretta Berry, Newry's administrative assistant, said she had checked with other towns for their input on the proposal.

"Some said it's OK, and some said, 'stay away from it,'" she said.

She said the credit procedure is a common practice in some towns.

In the case of the Mt. Will project, if the developers abandon the work, Newry would arrange to have the road completed but would not own it, selectmen said.

Berry wondered if the $1.8 million would be enough. "It's enough for today, but what about three years from today?" she asked.

But Steve Wight said the $200,000 cushion seemed reasonable.

And, said Liberti, if he and Lilly went away, the bank would have the property "and it would be in their best interest to finish the road."

Liberti said the credit arrangement is actually a stronger one than the usual procedure. Typically, developers simply present a letter from a bank saying the bank will loan the money to build a road.

The selectmen voted unanimously to approve the credit plan.

Selectman Jim Largess speculated that the town might see more developers pursuing the option, now that it has been used once.

"I don't know that that's bad," he said.

The issue now goes back to the Planning Board.

The Red Hat Ladies will meet Sept 15 at Ellie Andrews' Camp on North Pond.

Florence Hastings celebrated her 101st birthday on the 13th with her entire family attending.

A surprise 60th Birthday Party was given Larry Smith by his children and grandchildren at S.S. Milton restaurant. Also celebrating her 90th birthday was Larry's mother, Phyllis Smith of Bethel.

Linda Jackson of New Brunswick, Canada, has been spending some time with her parents, Bud and Mary Paine.

A Family Reunion of the Glines Family, hosted by Greg and Sara Glines in Randolph, N.H., was held on Aug. 6. Those attending were Sally and Paul Bodwell of Bethel, Cassie and Cass Dyer of Bangor, Ed Dorion and Mary Nutter of Portland, Dick Paine of Auburn.

Reggie and Mary Brown spent last week on vacation camping at Cusuptic Campground in Rangeley.

Polly and Lindley Wieden are now at home in Madison after spending time in the hospital.

Duplicate bridge was held Friday with five tables in play. Winners for the morning were: first, Larry Holmes and Les Buzzell; second, Dick Allen and Pete Cummings; third, Marta Clements and Richard Balian; fourth, Adele Bendes and Woody Mercier. Also placing were Eleanor Griffin and Jim Dickens.

On Aug. 6, Brent Bachelor, from Providence, R.I., was home.

While here he attended his 20th Class Reunion from Telstar Regional High School. He had a good time visiting with the many classmates who had returned for the event.

Owen Wight's family gathered at his home on Sunday, Aug. 7: Matt and Donna Wight and their children, Diana, Sarah, Julie and Robbie from Washington state; Scott Wight from the Bronx, N.Y.; Bill and Gail Brooke with Caitlin from Whitefield; Susan Brooke-Bowie, Randy and Audrey Brooke, Seneca and Freeman Corriveau and their children, Kiaya and Samuel, all of Newry; and Amber Brooke and Wayne Taylor with Maya from Upton.

On Monday, Aug. 8, David and Frank Lowell, along with Jack Deitemyer and Doug Zinchuk, flew out of Boston Logan Airport for Denver, Colo. In Denver they rented motorcycles and traveled to Estes Park. During their stay they have visited Durango, many natural wonders of the area, visited a spot on an Indian Reservation called the Four Corners — a place where four states join: Arizona, Colorado, New Mexico and Utah. They returned home on Aug. 16.

Sandee and Leon Dunn spent last weekend at Richardson Lake.

We wish Bill Wight a speedy recovery. We wish both he and Sylvia, who has been with him at Ledgeview, a quick return to their home as well.

The new pavement on Route 26 goes only as far as the New Hampshire line in Upton.

The road repairs are still in progress. As I said last week, FEMA was in no hurry to assist the town in dealing with this program.

Jennie Bernier called and informed us that there will be a Fall Picnic at the Lades Aid Building for the State Line Snowmobile Club. They are making plans for the coming winter. Soon the green grass will be replaced by that "White Stuff."

Joan and Dave Miller held their annual covered dish and slide show on Sunday evening. This year's lecture was about New Zealand. It was a fine evening seeing all the beautiful and wild areas of that region. Every year Joan and Dave trek to lands that are only read about. We thank them for their hospitality.

The Casey family traveled through some very rough water to reach the campsite up lake. They were rudely awakened by very cold weather in the morning.

The Ladies Aid Craft and Bake Sale will be held this Saturday, Aug. 27, at the Ladies Aid Building from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Roger Lavalley has been distributing "Loon" calendars for the photo artist, Jennifer Loomis. I would highly recommend this calendar to all who love the loons on the lake. Roger has been guiding professional photographers to remote parts of the lake for wildlife pictures. His website on the Internet is www.roger-shirley.com.

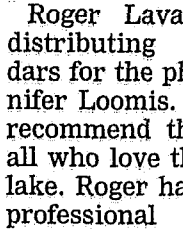

Poor Roger, he has nothing to do(?). He must be bored to death.

Migration of the birds has started. Their must have been twenty Canada geese congregated at Louise and Luc Cote's pond in Milsfield on Friday Morning.

There is an influx of downy woodpeckers at the suet feeders. The downy woodpecker is the "Bird of the Week."

We offer condolences to the Brennon Family on the death of their father, Edward Brennon.

West Bethel

by Lorrie Hoeh
On a recent morning walk, Jake and I noticed a sweet little blue flower growing in the sand and gravel shoulder of the road. My Field Guide to Wildflowers identified it as bluecuris (trichostema dichotomum).

The closed gentians have multiplied and are now being joined by fall blue asters. I guess summer really is coming to a close. Some really cool nights last week were precursors of frost to come, I'm afraid. I hope we can see more of our tomatoes, melons, peppers, and beans ripen before that happens.

The clouds and rain cleared up on Sunday just in time for the open house at Sunday River Alpacos. We saw at least a couple dozen visitors, all curious to meet the eleven alpacos who live with Maureen Libby and Jeff Erickson at the former Hodsdon farm. We watched as Maureen hosed down Liam and Vincent to help them cool off, but Aladdin wasn't too keen on being sprinkled. Jeff held three-month-old Sensation so that people could pat and admire him (me included).

While there we were introduced to Doris and Ray Whipple, who own the camp right next to the Mason swimming hole.

We had a nice chat with them about cross-country skiing along their road in winter. Their camp has been winterized, so we'll probably see them from time to time next winter.

I found Jane Hosterman and Pat McCarney at the farm as well. Jane reports that the Grange flea market was open one day last week and did very well. She and Pat had just come from the West Bethel Church picnic, which was held at Dan and Nancy Grover's home on King's Highway. The church accepted four new members on Sunday when Pat and Bill McCartney and David and Kathy DiGrattola joined.

One day last week we picked up our daughter, Martha Siegel, and grandson Andrew and drove over to the coast to Seawall Beach/Morse Mountain. This is a property that is jointly administered by the Nature Conservancy and Bates College.

The beach is home to nesting least terns and piping plovers, both endangered species. The weather was absolutely perfect, and the surf was up, with the water a reasonably comfortable temperature. This was Andrew's first time to play in the big waves, and he loved it.

I met Helen Cooper one day in the Bethel Library, and that gave me a chance to catch up on her summer activities. Like many area children, she's had a busy summer, spending time with friends and visiting the swimming hole in Mason, which she pronounced "cold." She also did a term at the Conservation Camp in Bryant Pond and visited Beth and Brad Clarke's camp on Concord Pond with Molly Siegel. But her biggest accomplishment was repainting her room a fresh, peachy orange. Sounds warm and welcoming.

Looking forward to hearing from you about your children's activities or your own. Call 836-3011 or write dhoe@megalink.net.

Today started out with some much needed rain and by midday the sun was shining and it seemed quite warm. Now that it is late afternoon, the sky is clouding up again but the sun peeks out every once in awhile.

Last week was a very busy week at work. The Adult Education brochure got finished and went off to the printer. This coming week, we will get it ready to be mailed so by the end of the week the brochure should be in all the area mailboxes.

This is the biggest one that we have ever done — 40 pages. I hope everyone checks it out to see all the new things that are being offered.

I had a surprise in the beginning of the week. A couple walked through the door of the office, and when I turned to speak to them, I was almost speechless. (Notice I said almost.) There stood Dewaine and Sarah Craig.

They have been visiting friends and family in Maine this past month. Their daughter, Beth, and husband still live in Maine. Dewaine and Sarah moved way across country to Washington a while ago and are living near their two sons, Chris and his family and Adam and his new wife. Sarah had pictures to share of Adam's wedding and their own home. They both look great and it was such a pleasant surprise to see them.

Maxine Corriveau was taken to Stephens Memorial Hospital this past week. Please keep good thoughts and prayers for her and her family.

This past weekend the Corriveau/Russell Family Reunion was held at the home of Darlene Corriveau-Levesque. There were several in attendance from New Hampshire, Connecticut, Massachusetts and all parts of Maine.

My brother, Steve McLain, usually stops by on Saturdays when he makes the weekly trip to the transfer station. While Steve and his faithful companion

The Way I See It

by Sharon Bouchard

Sharon Bouchard's column is published by special arrangement with the Advertising Department

This year marks the 40th anniversary of the Superball. There is still a version of the original around, but it doesn't bounce to the same degree.

Some of you will remember that the original Superball could bounce really, really high. As a kid you got so excited about just how high it could bounce that you were often not prepared for the fact that when it came back down it would bounce really, really high again. Taking the Superball to the chin on the second bounce was not unusual.

Chin injuries aside, the Superball, manufactured by Wham-O, was a lot of fun.

Other toys put out by Wham-O include the Hula Hoop, Silly String, Frisbee, Slip 'n Slide and in recent years, the Boogie Board.

Do you notice one thing all these toys have in common? Not a one requires batteries, electricity or any form of electronic or video screen. They all operate with a little imagination and a desire to have some fun.

Actually, the Hula Hoop did require a bit of co-ordination of hip movement, something that I no longer possess, but it certainly did not require batteries or assembly of any kind. You didn't even need an instruction manual.

I think in this electronic era we or more precisely, the toy manufacturers, feel that kids can't have a good time if their toys don't light up, buzz, beep or viewed on a video screen of some kind.

At the same time that health professionals are saying children need more exercise and less television time, the toy companies are creating more video and television interactive games. These games may require good hand to eye co-ordination and quick thinking, but they don't require any physical activity, imagination or play buddy.

I know you don't need a friend to gyrate a Hula Hoop, but I can tell you from my adolescent years as a Hula Hoop champ, it was a lot more fun when you and a friend tried to see who could keep it in motion the longest. I think I keep one going for over an hour, but my memory isn't much better than my hip motion, so I might be wrong.

This year marks the 40th anniversary of the Superball.

Anyway, my original point was that these simple non-electronic toys, not only provide a lot of fun, but a little exercise too.

Some of you may remember a column I wrote last winter about my frustration at not being able to find non-violent and non-electronic toys for my grandsons. I finally settled on board games and Lincoln Logs, which are scarce as hen's teeth these days.

Now I have found taking these kids to yard and rummage sales can provide all the entertainment they need.

I took a nine year-old and a six year-old to a rummage sale a few months ago. It was near the end of the sale and for $1.00 you could fill a large plastic garbage bag. I gave each of the boys $1.00 and expected them to run right for the toys. Much to my surprise they promptly headed to an odds and ends table where an old stapler and a carpet sweeper became items of great interest. They proceeded to fill their bags with all sorts of discarded junk, which I'm sure my daughter later discarded much of it herself, but the old stapler and carpet sweeper still provide hours of amusement.

At a recent yard sale the choices were a little handheld metal detector (batteries included) and a pen size radio/flashlight (batteries also included). The metal detector has become a treasure finder and the flashlight a laser beam that can melt steel or anything else to get to the pot of gold found by the metal detector. The radio provides some music to dance to once the treasure is obtained.

When I think about all the money I have spent on video games and electronic gizmos and geegaws, most of which have gone to geegaw heaven, it make me sick.

I think the real issue here is not what types of toys are flooding the market or even the all-consuming obsession the kids have for the newest Gameboy, it's us, the parents and grandparents. We are the ones who have lost our imaginations. We've forgotten how much fun playing with a jar of old buttons can be. We've forgotten what it meant to us when our Mom or Dad tossed around a Frisbee or ball with us. When is the last time any of us went crazy with a nine year-old and a can of Silly String?

The way I see it, it's about time we did.

The Gardner Roberts Memorial Library Moving Fund received a special donation of $60.24 from two seventh-grade girls. Sarah Moir from Howard Pond and Carson Harvey, a friend from Sarah's hometown of Gorham, made beaded hemp and string ankle bracelets, wrist bracelets, necklaces, bookmarks, and key chains, which they sold to residents around Howard Pond to raise money for the Library Moving Fund. A tremendous thanks to the creative girls who gave up summer fun to help the library effort.

Congratulations is due Chris Gould for being named 2005 Student Culinarian of the Year, a national award, by the American Culinary Federation at San Antonio, Texas. Earlier this year Chris won the regional competition in Cincinnati, Ohio. As a student at New Hampshire Technical College culinary arts program he was assigned to the Balsams Resort in Dixville Notch, N.H. Next March he will travel to New Zealand to the World Association of Cooks and Chefs Championship.

The Rumford Point Congregational Church will have a cool late summer supper on Aug. 25. They will be serving from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. The menu consists of cold roast beef, turkey and ham with potato salad, coleslaw, and best of all, pies. It will be $6 for adults and $3 for those that are younger.

The Howard Pond Preservation Association is having a supper and a guest speaker at 7 p.m. on Thursday, Aug. 25, at Teena's Restaurant in East Rumford. Everyone is invited, and Marjorie Hanawalt is the one to call for reservations.

Barb and Irv Robinson bicycled into Colville, Wash., last Friday after crossing the Idaho panhandle in two days. They are taking a few days off to be with relatives at Banff. Meanwhile, back in Hanover, plans are in the works for a welcome back celebration.

Officials of Gardner Roberts Memorial Library remind folks that they are still looking for good used stuff for their Sept. 17 yard sale. Call Vickie Fimiani or Donna Worcester if you have something to donate.

Even though much of this week's news has been about food and we are a bit hesitant to mention it, but, did anyone notice that real bad smell coming from that dead moose in the ditch along side Route 2? Someone put some sand over the carcass, which improved the situation.

Polly and Dick Johnston have been in town visiting friends and relatives for a couple of weeks. Their daughter, Joye Reir, arrived Aug. 6 for Olde Home Days. Their granddaughter, Trudi Lovell, her friend, Scott Shaw, and great-granddaughter, Corrienne, were here over Olde Home Day Aug. 5, 6 and 7. Corrienne was baptized at the First Congregational Church on Sunday by Pastor Jane Rich.

They enjoyed three lovely lobsters. Polly and Dick stayed at Roxbury Pond and Joye stayed at the Covered Bridge.

Olde Home Days were just great and the best weather. They enjoyed the best fried clams at Mills Market. They enjoyed the last two or three days at Wilson's Mills with Norman and Muriel Littlehale. They enjoyed lunch at Screw Auger Falls — with no bugs. Their favorite spot in all the world!

They left Sunday after church with their daughter Joye for Portland, enjoyed supper at the Lobster Shack at Two Lights and Monday had lunch with friends at DiMillo's before flying out at 3:30 p.m. They just loved it.

Clay and Kimbalie Moore, son Christopher, and daughter Brooke were recent guests of Kim's parents, Gerald and Helen Deane of Roxbury Pond. They reside in Vidor, Texas. Also here were their daughter, Jodie Wilson, and husband, Doug, with their three children, Danna, Dane, and Drew from Bethel. Fun was had by all.

Congratulations to my niece, Suzann and her new husband, Bryan, who got married on Aug. 13. It was a beautiful

by Joyce Lamb

A few weeks ago we were all complaining of the rainy weather. It was too wet and muddy to plant, so the farmers were late getting their crops in. Now with all the hot weather the crops are withering up. It will not be a very productive year for the farmers. We have had a little rain several nights to help. It has left the days sunny and warm. At the West Summer Universalist Church on Sunday, Aug. 28, the Rev. Herbert Adams will lead the service. Beth Chase is organist. Refreshments and a social hour will follow. This will be the last service for the summer.

Elaine Blossom of North Haven, Conn., is visiting her sister, Jeanne Whittemore and family. They are spending two weeks at Littlefield's Beaches. I joined them for three days in my little camper. The water and sunny beach were perfect.

The monthly programs at the Whitman Memorial Library in Bryant Pond will be starting up on Thursday, Sept. 8, at 10 a.m. The first guest of the season is Wendy Newmeyer of Maine Balsam Fir Products of West Paris. Wendy is a former Small Business Person of the Year and her products are sold nationwide. She will talk to us about her business and her products. She also plans to give out a free sample to all who attend. These programs are open to the public and there is no charge. Come and join the fun.

Georgia Thayer is spending the week in Barrington, N.H., visiting with Steve and Muriel Bunker. She will return home Friday.

A week ago I attended a Birthday Party at Sabattus at the new home of Kyra and Gene Falaharty. Their daughter, Molly, turned four years old and cousin Emily, daughter of Nina and Rob Hyssong, was two. Many family members and friends enjoyed a cookout and pony rides. Florence McLaughlin and Mel Young from West Paris were there. Granddaughter Amber Lamb of Colorado drove me down. She and brother Aaron have been visiting the Hills on High Street.

Buffy is looking better. The new fur is light, but his skin is dark orange. Maybe he did get some sunburn. He was well taken care of while I was camping. He was glad to be able to spend more time outside when I returned.

These are some of my favorite days, cool in the morning and warm in the afternoon. The rain this past weekend was great to see, as we needed some to cool off our gardens and keep the corn and other vegetables growing well.

The cool weather is just right and a good reminder to get our wood and yards ready for the winter season.

This weekend, Carol Noonan will be back, this time with Dana Cunningham. She's coming to the Brick Church for the Performing Arts in Lovell, on Saturday, Aug. 27. The show costs $15 and starts at 7:30 p.m.

The show will benefit the Charlotte Hobbs Memorial Library. For reservations call the library at 925-3177 or purchase tickets at Rosie's Diner on Main Street.

Keep your bottles for the next Ball Field Bottle Drive. It will happen on Sept. 10.

The Greenwood-Woodstock Senior Citizens will meet on Thursday, Sept. 1, at the Masonic Hall. Meeting at 11:30 a.m., dinner by the Star Birthday Club at noon, and program with Gil Whitman telling how and what he makes from metal following. New members always welcome.

The monthly programs at the Whitman Memorial Library will start up on Thursday, Sept. 8 at 10 a.m. The first guest of the season is Wendy Newmeyer of Maine Balsam Fir Products of West Paris. Wendy is the former Small Business Person of the Year and her products are sold nationwide. Wendy will talk to us about her business and her products. She also plans to give out a free sample to all who attend. These programs are open to the public and there is no charge. Come join the fun.

Joyce Howe and Olive Risko watched the Historical Museum on Aug. 13. Curator Larry Billings gave each of them a gift, especially Joyce as she had the annual picnic at her home in the evening. It was the first time in quite a while it was not at the museum. Thanks to President Mary Billings and the other officers and trustees for their work this year. Also, to those serving on committees and watching the museum. Curator Larry Billings has watered the urn and basket outside the museum and they have been repaid with living exhibits at the doorway all summer. Larry and Annella Burnham supplied them early on. Thanks to all the papers for the good publicity, it helps a lot. Also, to the correspondents for their work. The museum is an ideal place for displaying items, as it is largely open space with plenty of shelf space for collectibles.

I am sorry to say my sister, Dotte Critser, is in the hospital again in Tempe, Ariz.

I am calling again soon to see how she is doing.

I have a new computer, but have to get some practice and help before I can do my news on it. Bob Corriveau has been helping me and I should be able to get the hang of it soon.

I also have bought a new car. Not really new, it is a 2000 model, but new to me. Seems like everything happens at once.

Jo-Anna Southard and Molly have been visiting her family for a couple of days. Jo-Anna lives in Missouri. I visited her for a while one day this past week at her sister, Terry Merrill's home. Molly is nine months old and a real cutie. Jo-Anna is my niece. I also visited the same day at Terry and Phil Merrill's. They were enjoying the pool in their backyard.

Sorry to hear about Florence Seames (Raymond Seames' mother). Cancer is a bad thing.

And old friends of ours said cancer is something that gets people no matter how rich or poor they are, and I guess that is so.

Rena has had some compa-

I think the haying is all done at the Leonas and Fay Holt's farm.

Mandee and the girls have lost a yellow, short-tail cat in the vicinity of Hayes Hill. If anyone has seen it, please let them know (527-2028).

I see the campers are back. Hope you had fun Milt and Eleanor and you took a lot of pictures for us to look at.

Not much to write about this week, as I have been really busy.

BARN AGAIN, BUT TO BE USED AS A HOME
The timbers of this 200-year-old barn, formerly located at Bean's Corner in East Bethel, are being reassembled to become part of a house in the Sunset Subdivision near Bethel Village. Scott Campbell and his workers from Maine Mountain Post and Beam of Brownfield took the old barn apart in March. All of the timbers were saved, although pieces of some had to be replaced. The timing of the barn's reassembly coincides with a Smithsonian Institution Traveling Exhibition titled "Barn Again!" that opened last week at the Bethel Historical Society. The exhibit explores the role of a variety of barns in the American past and examines issues facing their future.

"Barn Again! Celebrating an American Icon," a Smithsonian Institution Traveling Exhibition, opened officially in the afternoon of Aug. 19 with a brief opening ceremony hosted by Bethel Historical Society Executive Director Stanley R. Howe.

In his remarks, Dr. Howe thanked the Maine Humanities Council and the Smithsonian Institution and all the sponsors for making this exhibit available to the Bethel Historical Society as one of only three sites in Maine.

This exhibition is the first time a Smithsonian Institution Traveling Exhibit has been presented in Maine and Bethel is the final site in the state.

Howe acknowledged the presence of Diane Jackson, representing U.S. Senator Snowe, Sarah McCarthy of U.S. Senator Collins' Lewiston office, and Cathy Newell, Congressman Michaud's representative at the opening and a former society president. He also praised Executive Director Dorothy Schwartz and the Office and Grants Manager of the Maine Humanities Council, Trudy Hickey, for all their help in making the exhibit's arrival in Bethel a reality.

Howe congratulated the two members of the staff, Randall Bennett, assistant director and curator of collections and Danna Nickerson, office secretary and assistant treasurer, for all their work in setting up the exhibit, plus installing the Maine Humanities Council's Maine Barns panel and the Bethel artifacts and exhibits.

He thanked Richard Duplessis of Pooh Corner Farm for the appearance of "Piglet," the pot-bellied pig, who greeted visitors to the opening.

Among refreshments during the afternoon were "switchell," a drink often used to relieve thirst during haying season on hot days. It contains sugar, vinegar, molasses, ginger, and cold water.

The exhibit, which explores the role of a variety of barns in the American past and examines a number of issues facing their future, is housed in the Historical Society's Dr. Moses Mason House Exhibition Hall, which was once a barn built by Dr. Mason in the early years of the 19th century.

The exhibit is open to the public, each day except Monday from Aug. 19 to Oct. 22, 1 to 4 p.m.

The exhibit also includes wall panels highlighting the history of Maine barns, plus displays of farm implements from the society's collection. There are also photos relating to the history of Dr. Mason's barn from the 19th century until the present.

The exhibit is free and anyone interested is cordially invited to visit. There will also be a number of other programming opportunities planned during the time the exhibit will be in Bethel.

On Sept. 8, Christi Mitchell of the Maine Historic Preservation Commission will make a presentation on Maine barns. A barn tour followed by a barn dance will be held on Sept. 17. On October 8, there will be a special program featuring Maine Humorist Norbert Twichell preceded by a harvest supper at Alder River Grange. Bill Bunting will make a special presentation on work on Maine farms at Pleasant Valley Grange in West Bethel on Oct. 13. On the last day of the exhibit (Oct. 22), Project Scholar Donald Cyr will discuss Aroostook barns.

"We are very pleased to include this outstanding exhibition as part of our offerings to our members, friends and the general public during 2005," Howe said in making the announcement at the exhibit's opening. "We are very grateful to the Maine Humanities Council for all their support in bringing the exhibit to Bethel," he added.

The Maine Humanities Council presents "Barn Again! Celebrating an American Icon," an exhibition organized by the Smithsonian Institution Traveling Exhibition Service (SITES) and the National Building Museum with the assistance of the National Trust for Historic Preservation. Barn Again! is a registered trademark owned by the Meredith Corporation and the National Trust for Historic Preservation. This project was made possible through the generous support of the John S. and James L. Knight Foundation and the Hearst Foundation. Additional funding has been provided by the National Endowment for the Humanities, the Smithsonian Institution Special Exhibition Fund, and the Smithsonian Educational Outreach Fund.

With over 1,200 members, the Bethel Historical Society, founded in 1966, is western Maine's largest and most comprehensive full-time historical agency, dedicated to collecting, preserving, and interpreting the regional past for present and future generations. For nearly forty years, the society's activities have included lectures, exhibits, special events, heritage festivals, workshops, conferences, school and educational programs, and publications. Since 1974, the society has operated from its Broad Street headquarters, the Dr. Moses Mason House, a period house museum and research library. In 1999, it opened the O'Neil Robinson House (next door at 10 Broad Street) to the public for an expanded exhibit program, museum shop space, and administrative offices. Through the years, the society's achievements have been recognized by a number of state and national organizations.

From the Greenwood Historical Society

The Committee for the Greenwood Elementary Schools Reunion, held Aug. 13, is pleased to announce the event was a huge success. The Sub-Primary Room at the Locke's Mills village school was crowded throughout the reunion, with 86 names appearing in the guest book and 14 or more viewing the many school and class photographs without signing it. Among the prized exhibits was a school desk and seat from the back row in the Eighth-Grade room, and, as everyone recalled, a desk in that row was always coveted.

There were many pauses between one another attempting to recognize a classmate, and even when both wore a nametag, one often heard "I can't believe it's you!" The reunion highlight, at least for the Sub-Primary Room overseer, Committee Member John Davis, was the appearance of his Sub-Primary Grade teacher, Miss Salls, now Mrs. Hazel Ford of Mechanic Falls. He said it was most rewarding to watch and listen to the former students, their spouses, and friends reveal about their schooldays and how it used to be.

The Society's Swan House, with Margie and Blaine Mills as the day's tour guides to show visitors through the house's 1910-1920s décor, also was set up with more old school and class pictures available to view; while the Bennett House, with Denise and Cubby Swan as guides to show the house's 1930s décor, was open to visitors for the very first time, and among them was Professor Dean Bennett, who marveled at the arrangement inside the house he grew up in.

Both the Swan and Bennett houses attracted approximately the same number of visitors as at the old school house, with some 75 names being recorded in the guest book. Of course many of those attending the reunion spent time viewing the memorabilia at all three sites, as well as a great number gathering at the Town Hall to sit, chat, and reminisce while partaking of light refreshments from the table attended by Committee Members Joan Kimball and Betty Hollis.

The Committee for the Old-Fashioned Dance sponsored by the Society at the Town Hall that evening, also reports a large turnout, with many of the couples having stayed over from attending the reunion events earlier in the day. The Society and the Reunion Committee wish to thank one and all who attended and supported our events, and a special thanks to Member Louise Horne, who continuously raced back and forth from one site to another photographing all the goings on.

For those who love history, and everyone for that matter, the Society meets at 7 p.m. on the first Wednesday of each month at the Swan House in Locke's Mills. Everyone is welcome to attend. Sometimes we even have a program, so mark your calendars.

'Sight Unseen' at Deertrees

"Sight Unseen" will be presented at Harrison's historic Deertrees Theatre Thursday through Sunday, Sept. 1, 2, 3 and 4. All performances are at 8 p.m. Tickets are available at the Cool Moose in Bridgton, The Country Sleigh in Naples, Fare Share Co-Op in Norway, Books N Things in Bethel and at the theatre. "The only folks who sacrifice more for art's sake than artists themselves are the people they choose to love."

Jonathan Waxman, the focal character of "Sight Unseen," is not too unlike his creator. His meteoric career rise to the status of a "visionary painter," whose future work collectors are eager to buy sight unseen, came after years of obscurity. Playwright Donald Margulies, too, was a slow bloomer; though at 40-something he's very much a name that comes up in any discussion of consistently entertaining and thought-provoking contemporary playwrights. Like his best known plays, "Collected Stories" and the Pulitzer Prize Winning "Dinner With Friends," "Sight Unseen" is chockablock with funny and incisive dialogue, themes to churn post-theater discussions, and characters whose vulnerabilities are revealed in interesting and subtly constructed scenes.

First presented Off-Broadway in 1992, "Sight Unseen" won the Obie Award for Best New American Play, was nominated for a Drama Desk Award, and was a finalist for the Pulitzer Prize. Often described as a "perfect play," the Deertrees Theatre Festival presentation will feature Beth Chiarelli, Paul DeBoy, Kate Geishen, and GreenLight TheatreWorks founder and producer, Thomas Sullivan.

The play could be summed up as "successful American painter detours from a London retrospective of his work to visit the lover he hasn't seen for fifteen years in the Spartan farmhouse where she lives and works with her archeologist husband." But that only hints at the conflicted feelings that simmer beneath the initially polite interchanges and the way Margulies plunges his characters — and us with them — into the more controversial subtexts vis-à-vis race and modern art. And, as he would do in later plays, he is able to get to truths about love and heartbreak in a way that has suspense and surprise, and although a drama, the play does so with humor and lighthearted moments.

When Jonathan sees that his ex-lover has kept a portrait he painted of her in his early years, it takes him back to their beginnings and the play becomes a sequence of nuances, skillfully zeroing in on the choices that men and women make in self-aware moments and, just as crucially, in unself-aware moments. "These are the choices," Jonathan whispers between his lines, "that turn life into an inconclusive procedure."

and is throwing a birthday party today, Aug. 25. President Teddy Roosevelt created the Forest Service a century ago to oversee public land for all the American people, and everyone is invited to come enjoy the Centennial Celebration festivities, which will be based at the Mount Washington Auto Road, located on Route 16 south of Gorham, N. H.

The Forest Service and friends will be hosting activities, booths, guided tours, and demonstrations — all to celebrate the land, history, and partners of the White Mountain National Forest. Registration and carpooling arrangements for guided tours start at 8:30 a.m., with the tours departing at 9 a.m. and returning by noon. Other festival activities run from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Guide tour choices include: the historic Hastings logging town in Gilead, an active timber harvest site near Dolly Copp Campground, the Bartlett Experimental Forest, the Hubbard Brook Experimental Forest, and a walk on the Discovery Interpretive Trail on the Kancamagus Highway. All tours will meet at the Mount Washington Auto Road except the Hubbard Brook and the Discovery Trail, which will meet at those locations.

The day's activities include something for everyone in the family — scavenger hunting, stream studies, nature walks, Junior Ranger activities, and plenty more to do and learn.

A Living Legend is Coming to Deertrees

Veteran bluesman Roy Book Binder, whose distinctive music was inspired by the Delta, Piedmont and Texas Blues artists from the early 19th Century, will make his only Maine appearance at Harrison's Deertrees Theatre on Tuesday, August 30th at 8:00 pm. In addition, he will be conducting a Blues Guitar Workshop from 1:00 pm to 4:00 pm on Sunday afternoon August 28th.

Book Binder spent the early 60's learning his craft from Blind Lemon Jefferson and the legendary Rev. Gary Davis. After several years sharing the Greenwich Village Folk Scene with the likes of Bob Dylan, Janis Ian, Phoebe Snow, Tom Paxton and others, Roy struck out on his own. While traveling through the Carolinas, Roy rediscovered the old medicine show entertainer Pink Anderson, whose comedy and music had a lasting effect. In fact, Pink Floyd, the infamous rock group of the 60's used Pink's first name for their group title.

Since then, "The Book" has crossed paths with an amazing cast of characters, touring with B.B. King, Ray Charles, Doc Watson, Bonnie Raitt, J.J. Cale, and Jorma Kaukonen, of Hot Tuna and Jefferson Airplane fame.

Roy's repertoire includes traditional blues as well as his own compositions.

Since he blasted onto the scene in the late 60's, Roy has been on the road non-stop in his Airstream mobile home, spreading his unique brand of "hillbilly country blues." A storyteller and raconteur of extraordinary wit, "The Book" brings each song alive with his unique brand of insight and humor.

Tickets are available at the Cool Moose in Bridgton, The Country Sleigh in Naples, Fare Share Co-Op in Norway, Books & Things in Bethel and at Deertrees Theatre. For reservations, enrollment in the workshop and further information please call the Deertrees Box Office at 583-6747

KIM PARKER
Kim Parker, 49, passed away at his home in Tempe, Ariz., on July 30, 2005 in the loving arms of his wife, Marsha, after a brief illness with Melanoma.

He was born Nov. 2, 1955 in Rumford, to Guy and Marilyn Parker. He attended Bethel schools until 1967 when they moved to Milford, Conn., where he graduated from Jonathan Law.

He then worked for Avco Lycoming for seventeen years and was eventually transferred to Honeywell in Arizona, where he worked another seven years. His department was responsible for assembling aircraft and tank engines, then testing and assuring that they were in perfect working condition for shipment to our armed forces all over the world. He was very proud of his department's work and safety record.

Besides his wife, he is survived by two wonderful daughters, Kelley and Jennifer of Gilbert, Ariz.; his mother and stepfather, Marilyn and Charles King of South Portland; his grandmother, Sarah Stevens of Bethel; two sisters, Rhonda Lichtenstein and her husband Robert of South Portland and Vicki Parker of Woodbury, Conn.; a brother, Mitchell Parker and his wife Sheree of Milford, Conn.; two half sisters, Cynthia DiMatteo of Framingham, Mass., and Nancy Fauser of Locke Mills; a half brother, Robert of Norway; and several nieces and nephews. He was predeceased by his father in 1990.

His family was very dear to him. He leaves behind many fond, happy memories. He loved sports, hunting and fishing, digging for Indian Artifacts, searching for gemstones, was an avid reader and had a great interest in history. He became very fond of Arizona and considered it his home but Maine held the memories of his childhood. He loved coming to stay with his Grandfather and Grandmother Stevens and Grandfather and Grandmother Parker, going fishing and camping with them or just hanging out with friends and family. Another favorite place was Hermit Island Camp Ground where half of Bethel used to stay. He always said he was blessed to have been able to spend so much time in Maine. Some of his ashes will be buried here.

A memorial service was held Aug. 6 at the Pentecostal Church of Scottsdale. Donations may be made to the American Cancer Society.

Card of Thanks

I wish to thank all those who sent me cards, brought in flowers and gifts and took the time to visit me during my convalescence following my knee surgery. I am truly blessed to have a loving family and so many caring friends. May God bless you all.

* SADLY MISSED *

Michelle A. Waterhouse

Now you're a pretty angel in the sky,
Above the clouds way up high.
In the stars we see at night,
The ones that are big and bright.

You fall with the snowflakes when it's cold,
Floating so lightly, shiny and bold.

You're the wind that travels every which way,
And the sunrise of each and every day.

Your wings spread far and wide,
As you wait for people to guide.

You take their hand and show them the way,
And I know you'll do the same for me someday.

I miss you girl!!!
Happy Birthday

Love Always,
Your Friend,
Crystal Mills

FLORENCE E. SEAMES

Florence "Flossie" Elizabeth Seames, 74, of Greenwood, died in Norway, Saturday, Aug. 20, 2005.

She was born in Woodstock, May 19, 1931, the daughter of Wendall and Alice (Felt) Roberts, and attended Locke Mills Elementary School and Woodstock High School.

She worked at Smith's Shop and Save in South Paris as produce manager, Hathaway's Country Store in Locke Mills and at Ekco Wood Products (Gilbert Manufacturing) in Locke Mills.

She married Stanley Seames on June 11, 1947, and they made their home in Greenwood, where she was a lifelong resident. Stanley died in 1985.

She retired nine years ago to enjoy her family and hobbies, and was active her entire life. She loved to fish, garden, pick berries and cook. She was known throughout the area for her cooking, especially her pies.

Her joy in life was taking care of her family and the special people in her life. Among the first to call when someone was ill, she often showed up at the homes of family and friends unannounced with goodies. Although never rich in material things, she believed she was extremely rich in family and friends. We are comforted by happy memories from the many years we had with her.
